

Peer Review

Books and articles published in tab edizioni's book series and journals have been evaluated both by the publisher and by selected referees.

Academic and independent scholars in the relevant research field evaluate submitted manuscripts for originality, validity, and significance to help the publisher to determine whether a text should be published in a book series or in a journal, if it needs to be modified/revised to be published, or if it cannot be accepted for publication.